Two days ago, the founders of the online LaTeX editor SpanDex.io , Joshua Gross und Gregori Kanatzidis, announced that their service will be discontinued.

They explained , that it took them too long to develop features and to make sales. They will refund for already paid premium accounts the remaining time for the rest of the month or year. Users will have two months to download their documents.

Users are adviced to use other online compiling services, such as writeLaTeX , ShareLaTeX , verbosus , and publications.li .
